Department of Rehabilitation Sciences

Dear Colleagues,

RE: Master of Science in Rehabilitation of People with Developmental Disabilities (發展障礙人士復康理學碩士)

On behalf of the Department of Rehabilitation Sciences, I would like to invite application for the above Master programme.

This programme is specially designed for rehabilitation and education professionals working for people with developmental disabilities. This established programme aims to enrich your knowledge and leadership potential. It also focuses on the application of inter-disciplinary team approaches to develop attitudes and qualities appropriate for independent and partnership professional practice for people with developmental disabilities. The teaching team includes occupational therapists, physiotherapists, educators, nurses, psychologists, speech therapists and social workers. The programme's multi-disciplinary nature not only advances your knowledge of professional practice, but also expands your perspective in the field of rehabilitation. On completion, you will be better equipped to adopt a leadership role in your chosen career.

The programme admits students in alternate years. The coming admission will be for the academic year of 2010/11. The application period will be 15 December 2009 to 1 March 2010.
